

Privacy Policy

CollegePrep-101 (and it's creator, employees and/or representatives) does not collect or maintain any information on site visitors other than what is voluntarily divulged by them to us. Any information gained this way will not be sold, loaned, rented, or otherwise passed to another person, entity or organization without the express written (including e-mail) consent of the individual involved. CollegePrep-101 values it's site visitors and their privacy, and endeavors to maintain that privacy at all times.

'We use third-party advertising companies to serve ads when you visit our website. These companies may use information (not including your name, address, email address, or telephone number) about your visits to this and other websites in order to provide advertisements about goods and services of interest to you. If you would like more information about this practice and to know your choices about not having this information used by these companies, click here.'